

Capability overview

Owner-review edition · 27 October 2026. This overview describes the service categories confirmed by the business owner. It is not a substitute for the documents required by a solicitation, a security licence, insurance, clearance or a confirmed deployment arrangement.

What we discuss

Niibawi Security offers security guard services, mobile patrol, concierge security, security consulting, surveillance monitoring, alarm response, fire watch and construction security. Time-sensitive requests are reviewed subject to availability. Indigenous business consulting, organizational learning, training and facilitation are discussed as a separate scope.

The intended buyers include commercial and residential property managers, construction companies, governments, institutions and Indigenous organizations. Service, staffing, location, timing and duties are agreed for each project.

A useful proposal brief

Provide the site location, property type, service required, coverage dates or hours, and a short description of the concern. Identify the client contact, access and visitor arrangements, priority areas, reporting expectations and any procurement deadline or mandatory criteria. Do not send door codes, identity records or protected plans in an initial enquiry.

Scope, accountability and procurement

Before a commitment, agree the duties and exclusions, shift or site handover, supervision, reporting format, escalation contacts and authorization of changes. Confirm the contracting and operating entities and the relevant licensing, insurance, screening and supplier records for the work and jurisdiction.

Niibawi Security and Iron Horse Security are sister companies, as confirmed by the owner. Iron Horse's history, contracts and accomplishments are not attributed to Niibawi in this document. Indigenous ownership, directory records and any certification must be attributed to the entity to which they apply; they do not automatically establish eligibility for an award.
